The Stupidest Angel V2 was created in 1999, at a time when Cattelan was grappling with issues of faith and spirituality. The sculpture was initially conceived as a response to a painting by the Italian Renaissance artist Andrea Mantegna. Mantegna's painting, titled "The Deposition," depicts the body of Christ being taken down from the cross. Cattelan's sculpture, on the other hand, depicts an angel who has fallen from heaven.

The Stupidest Angel V2 was first exhibited at the Venice Biennale in 1999. The sculpture was met with mixed reviews. Some critics praised Cattelan's wit and originality, while others found the work to be offensive and blasphemous.

The angel is capable of great love and compassion, but it is also capable of great cruelty and violence. This duality reflects the complexities of human nature. We are all capable of both good and evil, and we must constantly struggle to find a balance between the two.

The Stupidest Angel V2 has had a significant impact on contemporary art. The sculpture has been praised for its originality, wit, and provocativeness.
